NOTES AND RECORDS
THE ROYAL SOCIETY JOURNAL OF THE HISTORY OF SCIENCE

Contents

Special issue: Science periodicals in the nineteenth and twenty-first centuries

GUEST EDITORIAL
Science periodicals in the nineteenth and twenty-first centuries
S Shuttleworth and B Charnley 297

RESEARCH ARTICLES
The scientific, the literary and the popular: Commerce and the reimagining of the scientific journal in Britain, 1813–1825
JR Topham 305
What do you mean by a periodical? Forms and functions
P Corsi 325

Popularizers, participation and the transformations of nineteenth-century publishing: From the 1860s to the 1880s
B Lightman 343

Making public ahead of print: Meetings and publications at the Royal Society, 1752–1892
A Fyfe and N Moxham 361

OPINION PIECES
Distrust and expertise: Can scientific journals continue as gatekeepers?
V Heggie 381

Communities need journals
C Neylon 383

Science publishing 2035
R Higgitt 387

Rescaling scientific communication
M Patterson 389

How has publishing changed in the last twenty years?
S Gupta 391

The disruptive potential of data publication
S Leonelli 393

The future of scientific periodicals: A librarian’s perspective
S Butler 397

Engaging civil society with health research
M Madden 399

The ‘pay-to-publish’ model should be abolished
R Gadagkar 403